THE CROOKED LAWYER

No profession should hold to higher levels of honor, integrity and plain honesty than should the law. The right to practice in the courts of justice carries with it a vast and inescapable obligation to the public. Most lawyers live up to the essential standards—a few do not. And these few, as Courtney Ryley Cooper points out in an interview with Attorney General Cummings, appearing in a recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post, are as much the enemies of the public as the gangster they defend.

Mr. Cooper cites almost incredible instances of lawyers who are retained by known criminals and are given large sums of money to use in any way they like—so long as acquittal is obtained for the underworld client. Such lawyers worry little about evidence or justice—they know that bribery is a more effective weapon. They train their clients like actors, so that when they appear on the witness stand they can make "staged" answers to any question. They obtain perjured alibis—and buy off prosecution witnesses. In Mr. Cooper's words, "It is all fakery, crookedness, chicanery."

Bar associations, the judiciary and honest individuals are working tirelessly to rid society of this type of lawyer. But, as the interview points out, all such worthy efforts are doomed to failure without aggressive public support. Many people are inclined to be amused by the unethical lawyer—they even go so far as to admire the "cleverness" with which he manages to circumvent the ends of justice. So long as this attitude obtains, the shyster will prosper—and the ethics of the legal profession will suffer accordingly.

The law is the very life-blood of society. Its honest administration is our main defense against medieval social darkness. The crooked lawyer menaces us all—and his good offices (at high price) on behalf of the most depraved criminals are carried on at the expense of the entire public.

WHY KILL THE GOOSE?

Government is maintained by taxation on industry. The pay of public officials comes from the taxes that are taken from industry.

Then, why do so many public officials seek to gain popularity by attacking industry?

The simplest reasoning indicates the insanity of such a procedure.

Government in competition with private business can lead to but one end—destruction of private business, which means destruction of taxable resources of government.

The local Ladies' Aid Society is making elaborate plans to sponsor a home talent play, "Everybody's Here," on April 11 and 12 at Barnstable hall. This is a new play

Destruction of private business means destruction of constitutional rights.

No bit of liberty that is given by a people as bureaucracy encroaches on individual right, is ever regained except by pain and suffering.

The problem of upholding constitutional rights, or defending personal liberties and private property from the grasping hand of politics, is not a partisan issue, it is a personal matter to every citizen.

It makes no difference under what guise liberty and private enterprise are destroyed, the common people suffer and pay for the privileged, political class that profits.

Personal liberty is indeed a priceless heritage which should never be willingly exchanged for a mess of political pottage and patronage that destroys private enterprise.

THE FRUITS OF COOPERATION

A practical example of the essential work done by agricultural cooperatives is afforded in the case of dairy products' producers in an eastern state.

During depression, consumption in the largest market served by these farmers dropped 40 per cent. At the same time, production kept to a stable level, making it necessary for the producers to find new outlets in order to dispose of the surplus.

A pooling arrangement was then put into effect. Outlet for the surplus was found by turning a part of the total production to manufacturing units. Milk used for manufacture commanded a lower price than that sold to the consumer in the fluid state—and that inequality was satisfactorily adjusted within the pool by deducting enough from the price received by those who sold fluid milk to compensate the member whose milk went for manufacturing.

The plight of the unorganized farmer when demand falls, is well known. He is absolutely powerless—he can do nothing save continue to produce and take whatever price he is offered for the part of his crop that it wanted. When that farmer joins with other farmers and all work together in allocating production, stabilizing prices and exploring new markets, the picture changes altogether.

Cooperation has saved a legion of farmers from ruin during the past few years. And now it is slowly, but steadily, helping to bring agricultural recovery.

POLITICIANS VS. NATURE

Nature is repeating herself. Last year she brought the greatest drought in history to the great American midwest, turned millions of acres of rich wheat land to desert, and had the laugh on the puny efforts of man to control production.

As if that lesson weren't severe enough, Nature is again menacing crops—dust clouds recently swept day after day across the vast mid-west wheat country. The area affected includes over 50,000,000 acres of wheat land. The result, unless late rains do the unexpected and remedy the situation, will be an inconsequential crop.

The Secretary of Agriculture has removed certain restrictions on the planting of spring wheat. This is expected to cause a rise of from 10 to 30 million bushels in the spring crop.

which has recently been put out by the Simpson-Levle Producing Co., of Jackson, Mich., which will be remembered as the same company that put on the "Woman's Wedding." This new play is said to far surpass the former both in elaborateness and humorous situations. The cast will be composed of a large number of prominent men and women of our community. Remember the dates, April 11 and 12, and plan now to attend. Miss Ann Jordan, the director, is already at work, the cast selected and play being assembled. You don't want to miss this.

Mrs. William Duncan entertained her bridge club at a luncheon at her home last Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Joe Hucker won first prize, Mrs. Frank Wood second prize, and Mrs. Paul Avery the consolation prize.

Dr. Gindrich transacted business in Chicago on Wednesday.

Navy Uses Much Tin

Indians First to Use Paint

Paint in earliest Colonial times was mainly a luxury, antiquarians have discovered. At first crudely mixed paint derived from clay, enhanced the appearance of room paneling or floor.

When mahogany for cabinet work came into use, homemade furniture was often painted brick red in imitation of the expensive tropical wood.

Founding of Cleveland
Cleveland was founded in July, 1790, by surveyors from Connecticut who represented another company, which had bought a strip of land along Lake Erie. This land, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer, had been claimed by Connecticut by right of its old British charter, but it had relinquished title over it to the federal government and had sold the land to the Connecticut Land company. The company, in turn, resold farms and town lots to people in Connecticut, New York and elsewhere, and these settled in the city and the region around it.

Yangtze an Odd River
Beginning its course somewhere in the high mountains of Tibet, the Yangtze river is over 3,000 miles in length. It is a strange river, in places and at times it is as smooth as glass; in other places it is a swirling mass of whirlpools and of bolling rapids.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Reality" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, March 31.

The Golden Text was, "Thou, O Lord, shalt endure for ever; and thy remembrance unto all generations" (Psalms 102: 12).

Among the citations which complete the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things. Those things, which ye have both learned, and received, and heard, and seen in me, do; and the God of peace shall be with you" (Philippians 4: 8-9).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:

"The Scriptures imply that God is All-in-all. . . . He is all inclusive, and is reflected by all that is real and eternal and by nothing else. He fills all space, and it is impossible to conceive of such omnipresence and individuality except as infinite Spirit or Mind. Hence all is Spirit and spiritual" (p. 331).

"Treen" is a very old word, in vogue in the days when people ate their meals off platters carved by the menfolk from the trunks of trees growing near their wooden huts. The materials cost nothing and only their own work was needed to fashion the timber into useful domestic articles, so they made everything they could of "treen."
